Title Concerns certain requirements regarding experience and examination for nonresident military spouses seeking professional or occupational licensure.			Bill Summary: Last edited by Bradley Rawls at Jan 19, 2021, 5:22 PM Would provide for nonresident military spouses of active-duty members of the Armed Forces to apply for a professional or occupational license. Would allow a nonresident military spouse is to demonstrate two years experience in the past seven years in the profession or occupation in which licensure is sought instead of the past five years. Additionally, if a board concludes that an applicant is to sit for an examination, the applicant is to be issued a temporary license that would expire after 30 days, during which time the applicable board is to make its best efforts to provide the opportunity for the applicant to sit for the required examination. At the discretion of the board, a 30-day temporary license may limit an applicant to only performing specific services. Additionally, any courtesy license granted to a nonresident military spouse is to be valid for the period of time until the next renewal period.
