Each project demonstrates our passion for the region's inherent beauty, understanding of its climatic challenges, and appreciation for its diverse cultures and indigenous plant material.

Based in Austin, Texas, our twelve-person firm synthesizes architecture and landscape to create engaging, restorative outdoor environments that are not only infused with natural beauty, but also purify air and water, help mitigate climate, encourage social interaction and foster human healing. From planning and conceptualization through construction, TELA transforms ordinary outdoor places into ecologically, historically, and contextually sensitive landscapes that stimulate the senses and unify communities.
